

SCARED RABBIT

Once upon a time the rabbits were having a serious meeting.

What kind of life is this!
All the animals in the jungle
are more powerful than us.

A cartoon illustration of a white rabbit sitting on a tree stump. The rabbit has large, upright ears and a thoughtful expression, with its hands clasped in front of it. A speech bubble is positioned to the left of the rabbit. The background shows a blue sky and green foliage.

How long can
we stay like this?
Even if a leaf falls
from the tree, we get scared. It is better to die than
to always live
in fear.

This is true. We are living a life full of fear and anxieties. Better we commit suicide.

You are correct.
However, we can not commit suicide. How will we explain the suicide
to God?

We will question
God as to why he
made us suck
weak and fearful
animals.

Thus thinking like this, all the rabbits decide to commit suicide by jumping together in river.

They all went towards to river to commit suicide.

The frogs on the river bank saw the rabbits approaching.

Oh! Lets run the rabbits have come.

God help us!

Immediately all the frogs jumped in the river

Seeing the frogs suddenly jump out of fear, the rabbits got astonished.

Wow! They got so scared
of us.

Poor fellows!

We are not the weakest.

Hence, we should not become depressed
and commit suicide.

All were happy....

We are not
the only ones.
We are stronger
than so many creatures.

We should
thank God. We must live!

Yes we must live!

MORAL :

We should thank Krishna for all that He has given us.